The Pittsburgh Steelers initially had a verbal agreement with Dexter Jackson, who was the reigning Super Bowl MVP with the 2003 Tampa Bay Buccaneers. With an agreement in place with Jackson, the Steelers focused on drafting a running back in the first round. On March 12, 2003, Jackson signed with the Arizona Cardinals after they added $2 million to their offer and increased his salary by $2.3 million in the first three years.[6].

Toronto FC nears deal with Dutch right back Gregory van der WielIt appears Toronto FC has found one of its international targets. Dutch international Gregory van der Wiel was courtside at the Raptors game against the Los Angeles Lakers on Sunday. Toronto GM Tim Bezbatchenko, whodeclined comment last week on the club reported interest in van der Wiel.

Any other employer has the right to require a bachelor's degree or a high school diploma. Likewise, the NBA has a right to set an age limit if they so choose. The NBA is an employer and as long as they are not discriminating in some illegal way, they have the right to require certain standards of their prospective employees..

I still watch, I watch Thursday night football, college football on Saturdays, the Seahawks on Sunday plus redzone all day, followed by Sunday night football and then Monday night football. I work all week so I have everything done so I can do that. I think a lot of you just like to complain.

Some teams could use a change. Such as the Washington Redskins. Vince Lombardi changed their unnies for the worse so as to bryson keeton

Gain of knowledge is what has made today's world the way it is with technology along with.inevitably lead to added positive attention and higher self esteem.Another argument that is posed by people who are against uniforms is regarding the high price of uniforms and the financial strain it places on poor families. Granted that this is a problem, there are various resolutions. First, the school can create a reward system for donating any old uniforms to the school, so that the underprivileged can acquire the uniforms for free or at least at a reduced price.
