Yet, football coaches spend much time in practice going over special teams substitutions, techniques, assignments, alignments, and intricate full field schemes. Those details detract from time spent improving the offense and defense. These are the areas that directly lead to winning a football game.

Wish you guys and the media would stop making suggestions on how to fix things that ain broke, don we have enough crappy changes thrown down our throat each year by crazy man goodell. Winning your division and getting a playoff game makes sense as you play most games within your division. It also adds importance and excitement to division games.

"The pricing of today's helmets (on the market) doesn't make a lot sense," said Marver. "Shoulder pads, for example, jonotthan harrison jersey often cost more than helmets so we're paying more to protect shoulders than we are to protect heads. This issue is not to make a less expensive helmet, but to make a better helmet.".
