Both sites provide similar information, ranging from overall plot summaries and character analysis, but Sparknotes goes more into the literary aspect of the book, while cliffnotes focuses more on the character and his motives. In analyzing Jay Gatsby, Cliffnotes focuses much more on Gatsby himself and his underlying motives to his character, like "In assessing Gatsby, one must examine his blind pursuit of Daisy." (Cliffnotes). Some of examples of Sparknotes on Gatsby are, "Fitzgerald uses this technique of delayed character revelation" (Sparknotes), and "Gatsby is contrasted most consistently with Nick" (Sparknotes), showing how Sparknotes develops a more in depth character analysis.
