Functionalism and conflict theory are two theories that influence the purposes of schooling. These two theories are both different and similar in their view and relation to schooling. Basically, the differences lie in the way these two theories explain transmission, as well as way functionalists are more accepting and conflict theorists want to change things.

However, in all indications, Gillo Pontecorvo sought to make a neutral sided film that showed the futility of oppression and war. While one side may come out as the victor, the end result is not painless. This is expressed through the different mediums and methods Pontecorvo used to show the action..
