Sport differentiation is also important concerning sponsorship. Companies who sponsor niche sports place the most importance on attributes including cost effectiveness, spectator demographics, and the company fit with the sport image.[19] Niche sports often allow companies who cannot afford to sponsor mainstream sports a channel to market their companies. Also, with niche sports shown to attract a different type of consumer,[17] these companies desire to increase their public awareness within a specific target market.[20] Other attributes important to companies sponsoring niche sports are enhancing both their image and community involvement,[20] which may be easier to do through niche sports than mainstream sports..
