Most Canadian schools use rules adapted for the high school game. The exception is British Columbia, which uses NFHS rules as used in the United States.[4]Each state has at least one sanctioning organization for public schools. In many states a separate organization governs interscholastic athletics at most private schools.

Even with the President, Dr. Keel. Just his whole mind set about people in the work place, people with my position and just showing appreciation and letting us know that "We appreciate what you do here". His raw stats may not look impressive, but he was well above average at pass efficiency for much of the 1970's. Part of that was his extremely low sack numbers for his era. Hart's league adjusted career numbers compare favorably to lots of guys in the "Hall of Very Good" category often ranked in the Top 50, but Hart is a big omission from that group.
