The first Badger football team took the field in 1889, losing the only two games it played that season. In 1890, Wisconsin earned its first victory with a 106 O drubbing of Whitewater Normal School (now the University of Wisconsin Whitewater), still the most lopsided win in school history. However, the very next week the Badgers suffered what remains their most lopsided defeat, a humiliating 63 O loss at the hands of the University of Minnesota.
