He then teamed with Mike Patrick and sideline reporter Heather Cox as game analyst for the 2009 season, working ESPN on ABC Saturday afternoon broadcasts, while still working the Thursday night package. On December 19, 2011, James announced that he was leaving ESPN to run for the United States Senate.[18] James also operates his own broadcasting school, eponymously called the Craig James School of Broadcasting. James said in 1998 that the Wisconsin Badgers were "the worst team to ever play in the Rose Bowl." Wisconsin went on to defeat 6 UCLA 38 31 in the 1999 Rose Bowl. Afterward, Badger coach Barry Alvarez fired back, "Well, I know we're at least the second worst."[19][20]James is a voter in the AP college football poll, and has received some attention and criticism for his reported tendency to give low votes to teams from outside the Automatic Qualifying conferences, such as Boise State and TCU.[21][22]On August 30, 2013, Fox Sports Southwest announced that it had hired James as a college football analyst and co host of the network's college football studio show.[23] On September 2, after only one appearance, Fox Sports Southwest abruptly cut ties with James before he'd formally signed a contract.
