With the 14th pick in the draft, the Bears selected Virginia Tech cornerback Kyle Fuller, who recorded 173 tackles, 4.5 sacks, six interceptions and 21 deflections during his college career.[64] In round two, with the 51st pick, LSU defensive lineman Ego Ferguson was drafted; Ferguson had started only one full season in 2013, recording a sack, but had his season end due to an injury, which had prevented him from participating in the NFL Scouting Combine.[65] In the following round, Chicago drafted defensive tackle Will Sutton of Arizona State with the 82nd pick; Sutton recorded 20.5 sacks in his college career, while leading the Pac 12 Conference with 10.5 sacks and 20 tackles for loss in 2012.[66] The Bears held two fourth rounders: the 117 and 131, the latter being acquired after a trade with the Denver Broncos. The former was used on Arizona running back Ka'Deem Carey, the school's career leading rusher,[67] and was considered as the best running back available by numerous experts.[68] The 131st pick was used on Minnesota safety Brock Vereen.[69] As a result of the trade with Denver. the Bears did not have a fifth rounder. In the sixth round, with the 183rd pick, San Jose State quarterback David Fales was drafted, who holds every passing record in school history.[70] The next round, with the 191st pick, Miami punter Pat O'Donnell was drafted; O'Donnell led the Atlantic Coast Conference and ranked second in the nation in punting average with 47.1 yards.[71] The Bears' final pick, the 191st pick in the seventh round, was Boise State offensive lineman Charles Leno, Jr., who started 36 consecutive games since 2011.[72].

The had been to the playoffs from 2000 to 2004, but in 2005, the team was torn apart by injuries and the Terrell Owens saga and finished 6 10 a year after appearing in Super Bowl XXXIX. Retooled and refocused in 2006, the won four of their first chris bordelon jersey five games, but they underwent a mid season downturn that left them 5 6 and without McNabb. Backup quarterback Jeff Garcia stepped in and running back Brian Westbrook stepped up as the season turned around for Philadelphia.

For Wilson, he swapped a $1.542 million base salary for 2015 and the possibility of getting a lot more later for a fairly large bird in the hand now. Whether it viewed as $21.9 million per year in new money or $17.8 deon simon jersey million per year in total value, it a lot more than Wilson has made in three NFL seasons. And it was the smart and prudent choice to make.
