The draft was broadcast on ESPN both days and eventually moved to ESPN2. No teams elected to claim any players in the supplemental draft that year. The first round featured sixteen players who would eventually be elected to at least one Pro Bowl. The Citrus Bowl was previously a common venue marcus maye jersey for games. The Carrier Dome in Syracuse, New York has been mentioned as a potential site for such a game, with the host team not yet mentioned.[2]While selected preseason games are televised nationally by the NFL's main broadcast partners, the majority of them are in house productions of the individual teams, often in association with a local television broadcaster or regional sports network (such as Root Sports Northwest for the Seattle Seahawks, Comcast SportsNet Mid Atlantic for the Washington Redskins. MSG Western New York for the Buffalo Bills and Fox Sports Detroit for the Detroit Lions). Especially if a team's flagship station is affiliated with or owned by CBS or NBC, rightsholders may also subcontract with their network's respective sports department, such as CBS Sports (in the case of the Atlanta Falcons, whose flagship is CBS owned The CW affiliate WUPA)[3] or NBC Sports (in the case of the New York Giants to provide resources such as camera crews and graphics, or produce the entire broadcast, giving those networks their own ability to evaluate their production teams and the chemistry of network announcing teams before the season starts. Preseason broadcasts are typically syndicated to a network of stations within the team's market region, which also typically includes a package of team produced programming throughout the season (such as analysis and coach's shows), local rights to games broadcast on cable, and the right to brand themselves as the "official" station of the team in the market.

The Centre for Society Religion (CSR) marks the 40th year xavier coleman jersey of its existence in 2011.
